Canadian Geographic magazine is a Canadian magazine that celebrates Canada — our past, present, and possible futures. We’re dedicated to uncovering and communicating the stories about Canadian people, places, and issues that Canadian magazine readers want. Published by the Royal Canadian Geographical Society, Canadian Geographic magazine is more than a geography publication; each issue of Canadian Geographic is a voyage of discovery and exploration that features the latest science, environment, travel and human and cultural stories from across the country. The writing comes to visual life through stunning photography, original cartography and elegant art direction. No Canadian magazine rivals Canadian Geographic’s production values.

This award-winning tradition began in 1930. Today, Canadian Geographic is published six times a year and is complemented by a highly engaging website and a dynamic supplement series that speaks to our audience’s appetite for great storytelling about people and places across Canada and around the world that hold interest for the Canadian populace.

When you’re this relevant, it’s only natural to have great reach—Canadian Geographic connects with an audience of over four million Canadian readers across all platforms, who share our fascination with our nation.
Who is the Canadian Geographic reader? In a nutshell, the Canadian Geographic audience represents all Canadians, for today and the future. We deliver an audience that is increasingly culturally diverse, young, educated, and raising the next generation of Canadians.

At Canadian Geographic, we know that the only thing better than reading about the landscapes, cultures and wildlife of Canada is experiencing them for yourself. That’s why we’ve added bonus travel sections to four regular issues of the magazine in 2024 (up from two in previous years). Each 20-page section will feature a thematic selection of the top travel experiences in Canada and beyond, curated by the editors of Canadian Geographic.

SPECIAL BONUS TRAVEL SECTIONS:

MARCH/APRIL 2024
With spring in the air, it’s time to get out there. This section showcases top hikes for all ability levels, from an epic multi-day adventure in the Algonquin to Adirondacks corridor to self-guided itineraries in Nova Scotia, B.C. and southern California.

MAY/JUNE 2024
Canadian Geographic Travel takes to the water, spotlighting SUP adventures in eastern Canada, a Great Lakes cruise, and river exploration in Albania.

SEPTEMBER/OCTOBER 2024
The days are getting shorter, but that doesn’t mean the fun has to stop. Our editors reveal 20+ awesome things to do in the dark, from staying out all night in Montreal to snowshoeing under the stars in the Canadian Rockies.

NOVEMBER/DECEMBER 2024
How do you do winter? Whether you like to get your heart pumping on skis and skates or curl up with a book and a hot drink inside a cozy yurt, there’s something for everyone in this roundup of top Canadian winter experiences.

VACATION TRAVEL IN CANADA PERCENTAGE BY REGION:

FREE SPIRITS

Elusive, fascinating, misunderstood: the Kermode bear, or spirit bear, is an icon of the B.C. rainforest, but there’s more to this cream-coloured subspecies of the American black bear than meets the eye. In our cover story, Gitxsan author and artist Hetxw’m Gyetxw (Brett Huson), Gitxsan knowledge keeper Hanamuxw (Don Ryan), Roxanne Robinson, Chief Councillor of the Kitasu’i/xais Nation, and photographer Ryan Tidman gather at a remote lodge to share spirit bear knowledge from across time and nations.

TO SHOOT OR NOT TO SHOOT

In the age of smartphones and affordable digital cameras, just about anybody can take breathtaking photos and videos of wildlife guaranteed to go viral on Instagram or TikTok — but should we? We dive deep into the ethics of wildlife photography and reveal the ugly truth behind many of the beautiful images in our social media feeds, but also meet talented photographers who are determined to keep wildlife wild.

BACK ON TRACK?

Rail is seen as a great low-carbon transportation and shipping hope in countries as diverse as Morocco, Japan and the United States, yet Canada is actively removing the web of rail lines that once connected communities from coast to coast to coast, or selling them off to American buyers. Journalist Tim Querengesser argues that by removing these links, we are breaking the fibres that connect us to the broader idea of being Canadian — but that it’s not too late to change tracks.

SIGN OF THE TIMES

It has been called one of the oldest languages in North America. Plains Indian Sign Language, also known as “hand talk,” was once used as a universal language by Plains Nations stretching from what is now Canada to Mexico. Writer and contributing editor Alanna Mitchell speaks with the cultural activists striving to resurrect this endangered language.

YOU OTTER KNOW

In the summer of 2019, a tour boat operator spotted a furry creature floating off the coast of Haida Gwaii in northwest B.C. It was a sea otter, a mammal not seen in the area since being wiped out by the fur trade in the 1800s. Writer Brad Badelt explores the return of the kuu (the Haida name for the otter) and the Haida Nation’s initiative to ensure peaceful co-existence with an animal whose voracious appetite has raised concerns among local shellfish farmers.

CANADIAN PHOTOS OF THE YEAR 2023

Presenting the winners of Canadian Geographic’s 2023 Canadian Photos of the Year competition! See the most outstanding images of Canadian wildlife, landscapes, weather and more from the past year, and meet our 2023 Canadian Photographer of the Year.

EARNING THEIR WINGS

Canadian pilots serving in the British forces during the First World War astounded the world with their flying and shooting skills, and on April 1, 2024, the Royal Canadian Air Force became a permanent part of Canada’s defense force. Canadian Geographic celebrates the centennial of this storied force.

SNAKE OUT

Every spring, Manitoba’s Narcisse Snake Dens slither to life as tens of thousands of red-sided garter snakes emerge from winter hibernation and mate. The spectacle has become a tourist attraction and, because peak snake mating activity tends to coincide with Mothers Day weekend, it’s tradition for Winnipeggers to bring Mom to see the action. Writer Leslie Anthony and photographer Walter Potrebka visit the snake dens to figure out what all the hiss is about.

WHAT LIES BENEATH

Marine life and planetary health. Writer Leslie Anthony takes a deep dive into this emerging issue.

GRIZZLIES VS. POLAR BEARS

It’s an apex predator showdown: for the past several years, more and more grizzly bear sightings have been reported in polar bear territory, including around Canada’s polar bear capital, Churchill, Man. Scientists aren’t sure why, but speculate that grizzlies could be expanding their turf due to climate change. Writer Trina Moyles and photographer and guide Drew Hamilton take to the tundra to investigate how polar bears are responding to these interlopers — and whether we could soon see more “grolar bears” (polar bear-grizzly hybrids).

LIVING HISTORY

In 2012, the former gold mining village of Bourlamaque, Quebec was declared a national historic site of Canada. The heritage designation placed a unique burden on residents of the French-speaking community 500 kilometres north of Montreal: they must adhere to strict regulations and city bylaws to preserve the past while breathing new life into the company-built log homes once occupied by miners and their families. Photographer Guillaume Nolet gives us an intimate glimpse at this place where past and present converge.

BONUS: SPRING TRAVEL SECTION

20 pages of inspiration for your spring/summer travels, including an epic trek from Ontario’s Algonquin Park to the Adirondacks, national park hopping in southern California and much more!

BONUS: SUMMER TRAVEL SECTION

20 pages of mostly Canadian summer adventures, including a road trip around Nova Scotia following the trail of the province’s original Scottish settlers and the Mi’kmaq who helped them survive, and a luxurious new way to experience the history, culture and landscapes of the Great Lakes: a cruise aboard the Viking Octantis.

CAN GEO 2024 LINEUP
JULY/AUGUST 2024

JAWS AND EFFECT
As ocean waters warm, great white shark sightings are on the rise in Atlantic Canada. In 2021, a swimmer was badly bitten off Cape Breton, N.S., probably by a white shark, and shark sightings continued to make headlines throughout the summer of 2023. Writer Karen Pinchin and photographer Nicolas Winkler take to the seas to investigate why these misunderstood predators are moving north and what their presence means for tourism and the local ecosystem.

A VANISHING RESOURCE
Drought has always been a challenge for farmers on the Canadian Prairies, but recent years have seen Canada’s breadbasket struck by unusually severe and widespread dry conditions. There are fears that warmer winters with less snowfall could compound the problem. Irrigation, drawing on the region’s mighty, mountain-fed rivers, is a potential solution, but comes with challenges of its own.

FINDING MCCALLUM
About 900 people live in five communities spread out over the south coast of Newfoundland. There are no roads; the only way to access Gaultois, McCallum, François, Grey River and Ramea is by ferry or private boat. Post-Confederation, much of rural Newfoundland was emptied out through resettlement packages, but many small communities have found a way to hang on. Can Geo visits McCallum to find out why its 45 permanent residents stay.

SWEET CAROLINIAN
Carolinian forest, found only in southwestern Ontario, makes up less than one per cent of Canada’s landmass, yet is home to an astonishing 25 per cent of the country’s species at risk, including snakes, birds, plants and insects. Threatened by urban sprawl, invasive species and climate warming, efforts are ongoing to preserve the last of the Carolinian and educate suburbanites about the ecological treasures found right in their backyards.

SEPTEMBER/OCTOBER 2024

TO THE MOON
As early as December 2025, astronauts will land on the moon for the first time in more than 50 years. Advising them on scientific tasks to be carried out during the mission will be Dr. Gordon “Oz” Osinski, a planetary geologist and professor at Western University. But before the next generation of lunar explorers can blast off, they have to be trained in geology fieldwork — and the best place on Earth to do that is a meteorite crater in Labrador. Osinski takes readers inside this globally unique astronaut field school.

WILD HORSES
The wild horses of B.C.’s Chilcotin region are beautiful and romantic symbols of this expansive mountain wilderness, but they’re also controversial, regarded as pests by ranchers and blamed for overgrazing by conservationists. In early 2023, 17 horses were found shot dead near Kamloops, reigniting the debate around how to manage these animals, whose origins are still somewhat mysterious. Writer Monica Kidd takes us inside the battle for the Chilcotin’s grasslands.

28 YEARS
That’s how long Neskantaga First Nation in northern Ontario has been under a boil water advisory — longer than any other First Nation in Canada and two years beyond when the federal government promised to end long-term boil water advisories for all First Nations. Photographer Sara Hylton reveals the human impact of the crisis as part of an ongoing project documenting the importance of water to Indigenous communities.

NOVEMBER/DECEMBER 2024

THE BUG PEOPLE
To hear entomologist Donna Giberson tell it, the history of insect collection in Canada is a catalogue of wild passions and daring exploits. Richard Vockeroth, for example, collected about 440,000 specimens. Then there’s the collector couple, Monty and Grace Wood, who have nearly 41,000 specimens in the federal government’s collection in Ottawa. Contributing editor Alanna Mitchell traces the history of entomology in Canada — what’s changed about how we view bugs, and why insect science is more important than ever in the era of climate disruption.

BEST WILDLIFE PHOTOGRAPHY 2024
Revealing the winners of Canadian Geographic’s annual Canadian wildlife photography competition, featuring incredible images of Canadian flora and fauna from the land, seas and skies, plus the cutest animals, best macro shots and other honourable mentions.

FISH BACK
“Fish back” brings the land back movement to the context of fish, fisheries and waterways in Canada, reclaiming Indigenous jurisdiction and sovereignty over fishing systems. Ultimately, it’s a return of fishing rights and control — both political and economical — in traditional territories into Indigenous hands. Writer Jenn Thornhill Verma takes us inside this burgeoning movement to meet its key advocates on the west and east coasts.

BONUS WINTER TRAVEL SECTION
How do you winter? Whether you’re all in on snowy fun or seeking a getaway to the sun, this 20-page section is jam-packed with inspiration for the season ahead, including a wellness-focused itinerary in Jamaica, an Indigenous-guided adventure in Yukon and much more.
In its six issues per year, Canadian Geographic offers Canadians a deeper knowledge of their country — its people and places, its natural and cultural heritage and its environmental, social and economic challenges. Working with Can Geo, you’ll reach one of the largest dual audiences in Canada — readers who are early influencers and discriminating decision makers. Whether looking to connect with Canadians in print, online, through our interactive website or hyper-engaged social channels, our media team has a suite of à la carte and custom-crafted solutions to uplift your marketing efforts and drive ROI.

- Keep important objects ±0.25" from each edge

Production Requirements

- Any image or background colour intended to bleed must extend a minimum of ±0.125" past the trim dimensions on all four sides of the ad.
- Ads that are not intended to bleed must be sized to fit within the non-bleed sizes listed.
- All live matter (text and images intended to be printed) must be kept at least ±0.25" from each trim edge of the ad. Any matter that extends past this safety area may be trimmed due to folding and bindery variations.
- Right- or left-hand positioning is not guaranteed.
- Be aware of crossover limitations in double page spread configurations, as adjoining pages can shift up to ±0.125" in the binding process on certain copies.
- Images should be a minimum resolution of 300 DPI at 100% size.
- All RGB and spot colours must be converted to CMYK.
- Ink density for all four process colours must not exceed 300%.
- Contract colour proof must be supplied to guarantee accurate colour reproduction.
- Electronic files must be supplied as PDF/X-1A:2001 compliant.
- Please do not apply trapping to PDF files. Canadian Geographic will not be responsible for reproduction of trapped files.
- Type should be converted to outlines whenever possible.
- Canadian Geographic will not assume responsibility for type reflow or accurate colour reproduction if all necessary fonts, support files and press-ready proofs are not included.
- Canadian Geographic reserves the right to add a keyline to floating ads to differentiate them from editorial.
- Canadian Geographic reserves the right to refuse any or all copy deemed by Canadian Geographic to be unsuitable.
- Advertisers and/or advertising agencies assume full responsibility for all content of advertisements and any claim made against Canadian Geographic because of such content.
- All advertising materials will be destroyed by Canadian Geographic if not requested within one year after date last used.

Using the Addirect™ Ad Portal

All ads must be delivered via Magazines Canada’s AdDirect™ ad portal. Log into Magazines Canada’s AdDirect™ Ad Portal (addirect.sendmyad.com).

Required Material for Uploading

- The ad MUST be uploaded as a press-ready PDF/X-1a file. Information on creating a proper PDF file is available on the Magazines Canada website (magazinescanada.ca).
- Ad Portal CANNOT accept TIFFS or CT LW files, or native files such as Microsoft Word, QuarkXPress, or Adobe InDesign, Photoshop or Illustrator.
- Do not use spot colours or RGB art.
- Keep all colours CMYK. Keep any black/grey text as one-colour black (no four-colour black text).
